“Mr Prakash is a true and ethical professional I have known him for almost 25 years, and he has been amazing.

I think he is actually quicker and more precise now than when I did my first surgery 20 years ago, that’s what experience has done for him. A brilliant man and a brilliant surgeon, Mr Prakash has managed my expectations throughout every surgery and has delivered better than he promised.

I have had three difficult surgeries with him Rhinoplasty, Blepharoplasty and Lipo/Butt fill, the latter was not so long ago. I do not trust any other surgeons and that is why I always come back to him if I need anything. I once went elsewhere for lip fillers and it was a disaster I’ll never do that again. I trust Mr Prakash with my life and I know he will take care of me, and not think of me as a pound£ note, which many other surgeons do.

I have established a relationship over the years and I love him dearly, I know he cares about each and every one of his patients, which is a mark of a great soul. My ops have been life changing for me especially my first surgery which had so many issues to start off with physically and emotionally.

I personally have loved the more natural look which is exceptionally hard to achieve, but not for Mr Prakash. No one knows I have had surgery unless I choose to tell them as they’d never guess because everything looks natural.

Mr Prakash is a perfectionist, and God blessed his hands and I am forever grateful.”

Thanks Mr. P for everything!
